$2,000,000,000 IS REPRESENTED AT TRADE CONVENTION

Leaders of Industry at Planters Session Discuss Subject of Increasing American Exports; Secretary Redfield Tells of Government Activity.

CANAL TO BE A BIG HELP TO ST. LOUIS

Locomotive Builder Points to Opportunity—Complaint on Cotton Ship Rates and German Attitude on Chemicals—Banquet Tonight.

Delegates representing a foreign trade of more than $2,000,000,000 attended the second national foreign trade convention which met at the Planters Hotel at 10 o'clock this morning. The convention was called to order by Alva B. Johnson of Philadelphia, president of the Baldwin Locomotive Works, who presided at the morning session. The convention will continue Thursday and Friday, and there will be a banquet at the Planters tonight, at which James A. Farrell, president of the United States Steel Corporation, will be the principal speaker.

The Government of the United States is officially represented at the convention by Secretary of Commerce William C. Redfield, who, with Mrs. Redfield, arrived this morning. A special train, running in two sections, brought the Eastern delegation to St. Louis last night. The Chicago delegation, including members of the Illinois Manufacturers' Association and the Chicago Chamber of Commerce, arrived by special train this morning.

Chairman Johnson declared that St. Louis, as the metropolis of the South-west, having an export trade of more than $2,000,000,000 a year, would have a great opportunity for the expansion of her foreign commerce through the Panama Canal. He complimented the Business Men's League of St. Louis for its enterprise in sending a committee of its members into the South American countries to investigate and report on business opportunities.

Work of Trade Council. Johnson briefly sketched the objects of the foreign trade council, which he declared were to develop the trade relations between the United States and foreign countries in every legitimate way.

Upon the declaration of war in Europe last summer, and the consequent disturbance of American business conditions, he said the foreign trade council, in connection with the President and Congress, arranged for the enactment of the ship registry bill, the bureau of war risks and the establishment by two American banks of branches in South America.

The convention is being held in the big dining room on the second floor of the Planters, which is decorated with the flags of all nations with which the United States maintains trade relations. No delegates were admitted to the hall except those who were delegates, for which they paid $5 each. The object of the admission fee was to prevent the hall from being crowded with curiosity seekers.

Welcome by the Mayor.

When the convention was called to order, Farrell was seated on the platform, with the speakers of the day, who included Secretary Redfield, Mayor Kiel of St. Louis, Benjamin F. Bush, president of the Missouri Pacific Railroad; John Bassett Moore, former counsel of the State Department; and Sam D. Capen, president of the Business Men's League. The League could not be held responsible for everything they would find in St. Louis—for instance, the nine-foot bed sheets under which and upon which they would sleep in their beds at the hotel. The State Legislature was responsible for the unusual length of the bed sheets. He also warned them that they would find safety first signs on all the meat they would eat during their stay in St. Louis.

Secretary Redfield delivered the

CRY OF GIRL, 18, AT 5 A. M., CAUSES 13 ARRESTS AT CLUB

She Attracts the Police When Put Out of the Broadway on Sixth Street.

PLACE HAS NO LICENSE

Miss Ruth Weaver Is Taken to Hospital; Ten Men and Two Women Are Held.

An outcry by Miss Ruth Weaver, 18 years old, of the Metropole Hotel, when she was put out of the Broadway Club, on the second floor of 113 North Sixth street, at 5 o'clock this morning, led to the discovery that the club was still in operation and without a license.

William Maloney, a former proprietor of downtown saloons, who was acting as bartender and is said by the police to be one of the owners of the club, and 10 men and two women who were drinking there, were arrested. They are being held for the Circuit Attorney and the grand jury.

A sergeant and three patrolmen were drawn to the place by the girl's screams. She said she had been made drunk in the club and had then been thrown down the stairs. She was sent to the city hospital. The diagnosis there was acute alcoholism.

Maloney's Statement.

The other women in the club were Mrs. Stella McCarthy, 24 years old, of 3843 Finney avenue, and Miss Mary Browne, 27, of 707 1/2 Pine street. They said the girl had been put out by Maloney. The men arrested were Harry Le Mack, a director of the Moose Club; Daniel Morrison of Omaha, Neb., staying at the Maryland Hotel, who were with the two women; Henry Anderson, 7 South Sixth street; George Owsley, 365 Rutger street; James La Mothe, 410 Market street; Donald McKee, Oxford Hotel; Charles W. Branson, 85 Bates street; Louis Goldstein, 3313 Lafayette avenue; Joseph Costello, 4229 Kennerly avenue; and Louis Braxton, the negro porter.

Maloney said Miss Weaver came to the club with another girl and as she was intoxicated and boisterous, he refused to serve drinks to them and put them out, but denied that he had thrown Miss Weaver down the stairs.

Club Once Was Raided

The charter for the Broadway Club was formerly held by Charles Troll, better known as "Cap" Troll. When clubs were required to take out licenses it was being conducted by Maloney. No license was given out. It was raised Dec. 20, and Thomas Stoddard, head of a labor agency, who was in charge, was fined $200. Since then policemen on the beat have been under instructions to keep an eye on the place. They have been reporting that it was not in operation. Stoddard, who started the club, leases the premises and his labor agency is in the front part of the building. The club is in the rear, a long, dark, dingy room, which heretofore had been vacant. There is a regular saloon bar set up there, and persons of the neighborhood have had no difficulty getting access and drinks.

LeMack and Morrison told the police they were not members of the club, but that they had no difficulty in getting drinks from Maloney.

WOMAN AWARDED $9000 FOR HUSBAND'S DEATH BY AUTO

Jury Finds Against Conrad G. Beach—He Was Not in Car When It Hit Henry Emery.

Mrs. Mary C. Emery of Maplewood was awarded a verdict of $9000 by a jury in the court of Circuit Judge Raul today in her $10,000 suit against Conrad G. Beach of 3522 Crittenden street, whose automobile struck and killed the plaintiff's husband, Henry Emery, on Dec. 22, 1912.

Emery was a Kinloch telephone employe and had four small children. He was struck while crossing Eleventh street at Chestnut.

Beach is treasurer of the Union Sand and Material Co. He was not in the automobile at the time of the accident. Testimony showed the car was in charge of Alec Dyson, a negro chauffeur, employed by Beach, and that the car was going at a high rate of speed and did not slow up at the crossing.

C. W. POST'S TOMB GUARDED

Police Sent to Mausoleum When Watchman Fails to Report.

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., Jan. 21.—The hurrying of a special squad of policemen a few nights ago to the mausoleum containing the body of C. W. Post, the multimillionaire cereal manufacturer, has revealed that ever since the funeral, May 14, 1914, the place has been guarded day and night.

Whether this was the request of Mr. Post is kept secret, but for a long time after the interment a guard of two men by day and four by night was maintained. Recently one or two sentinels had watched during daylight and another through the night. They have been required to telephone the police station every half hour. A few nights ago the telephone was out of order and police reserves were rushed to the cemetery.

GETS 2 YEARS FOR KILLING A MAN WITH FIST BLOW

James Coff, Policeman's Son, Found Guilty of Fourth Degree Manslaughter.

CASE IS TO BE APPEALED

Sisters of Defendant Testified to Disputes With Conway Family.

James Coff, a blacksmith, living at 209 Kennerly avenue, was found guilty of manslaughter in the fourth degree and his punishment fixed at two years in the penitentiary by a jury in Judge Jones' Court this morning. He was charged with causing the death of M. C. Conway, 32 years old, of 2807 Kennerly avenue, on the morning of Sept. 4, 1914. The jury went out last evening and the verdict was read today.

The killing occurred in a dispute between Coff and William Conway, son of the man who was killed, at Vandeventer and Kennerly avenues. Coff testified that he had accused young Conway of calling Mrs. Coff a name, and knocked him down. Conway's father witnessed the dispute and Coff testified the elder Conway came at him with a broom.

Coff then knocked the senior Conway down. In his fall the elder Conway's skull was fractured and he died in the city hospital.

Coff in his testimony asserted that he had only intended to push Conway and had no thought of injuring him. Witnesses for the prosecution, however, testified that Coff had made a direct attack upon Conway and that he had kicked young Conway when he was down. The evidence as to whether or not Conway carried a broom when he went to his son's rescue was conflicting.

When the verdict was read Coff was alone in the courtroom. His counsel had not arrived at the time court opened and his father, who is a policeman, and his two sisters, who have been at his side throughout the trial, were delayed in getting to court.

Coff's sisters testified at the trial that disputes between the Coff and Conway families have been of long standing and that Coff's father had caused a high fence to be built between the two houses. One sister testified that on the afternoon before the killing Mrs. Conway had called her names.

ASSASSIN KILLS WOMAN AS SHE STANDS IN BATHROOM

Shotgun Fired Through Window of House Near Altoona, Kas.—Husband Is Held.

FREDONIA, Kan., Jan. 21.—Mrs. Amanda Ryan, who lived on a 300-acre farm, four miles south of Altoona, was assassinated in the bathroom of her home early last night. The assassin used a shotgun, firing through the window. The charge of shot struck Mrs. Ryan in the side, and she died in a few minutes. Before she died she tried to make a statement to some of her children, but was unable to.

Edward Ryan, her husband, was arrested in Neosho today, and is held pending investigation.

BUSINESS HAS NOT BEEN VERY ILL, REDFIELD SAYS

Secretary, in Interview Here, Says All Signs Point to Complete Recovery.

Secretary Redfield, who, as head of the Department of Commerce, is the business doctor of the United States Government, diagnosed for a Post-Dispatch reporter, at the Planters Hotel, today, the condition of American business.

"The patient is improving," was the doctor's diagnosis. "In fact, he was never very desperately ill."

The Secretary is portly, and wears a highly ornamental pair of what might be called redfield, if such whiskers had been named burnfield, after another eminent wearer, a half-century ago. They are not the reddest in the field, but are reddish enough to form an impressive color scheme, with the Secretary's large, spectacled blue eyes and his sparsely covered pink brow. While there is much of the financier type in his appearance, his manner is professional. He speaks deliberately, and his movements are without haste or delay.

He had just finished speaking to the national foreign trade convention on the subject of American export trade, when he was interviewed on domestic business conditions.

"The general domestic situation is slowly improving," he said. "There has not been time for the railroads to feel the effect of the earnings from their advanced rates, but they have shown signs of a forward movement."

"Among the important favorable factors are the prices which farmers are getting for grain, and the steady advance in the price of cotton. Both of these tend toward better purchasing power, and hence to renewal of activity."

"The prospect, it seems to me, is for a gradual, steady recovery of our industries. Every condition, both domestic and foreign, seems to point to this."

"The fact that money is abundant for loans is itself a factor which normally tends to get the money into use. Of course, the shadow of the war is over us all, and it is very hard to forget, in courageously pushing forward our own affairs, that men are being slaughtered by thousands among friendly sister nations. On the other hand, this fact brings into sharp contrast the greater fact that we are not only at peace, but peaceful. Every basic condition is secure and strong here, while yonder everything is necessarily covered by the uncertainties of war."

ELECTION BALLOTS STOLEN

Bloodhounds Used in Hamilton County (Ill.) Contest.

MCLEANSBORO, Ill., Jan. 21.—Bloodhounds took part in an election contest when it was discovered that the ballots of the November election in Hamilton County had either been stolen or mutilated. The contest over the office of Treasurer therefore came to an abrupt halt.

The ballots had been kept in locked boxes in an open room in the County Clerk's office. Entrance to the room was gained by sawing through a panel in the door. Snow which fell after the robbery made it impossible for the bloodhounds to follow the scent. C. L. Little, Democrat, was elected over Abram Peck, Republican, on the face of the returns.

PIECE OF MAN'S RIB TO BE USED TO SPLICE ARM

Bone Was Fastened Together With Silver Wire, Which Was Broken by Car Jolt.

Another unusual operation will be performed in the city hospital in an effort to make a man's arm "as good as new."

James McMahon, 31 years old, of 2842 Easton avenue, a laborer, will have one of his sides opened, a piece of rib about three inches long—three-quarters inch wide and one-half inch thick sawed out, and then used to splice together the bone from the elbow to the shoulder of the left arm.

Three years ago McMahon was struck by a railroad train near Chicago. The left arm was broken. It was pieced together with silver wire, but the bones never knit.

However, he was able to use his arm, and continued working until two months ago, when riding on a street car in St. Louis, the car gave a sudden jerk and he grabbed hold of the hand-rail on the seat in front of him. The jerk of the car severed the silver wire in the arm, making it useless again.

When an X-ray was taken of the arm at the city hospital it was found that the break was so clean-cut that there was small chance of it ever knitting unless fresh live bone should be used to splice it together.

This is the second unusual operation performed at the city hospital within two days. On yesterday a piece of the shin bone of a man was taken out and placed in the patient's vertebrae in an effort to strengthen the weakened spine.

3 CHILDREN WITHOUT FOOD, MAN AND WIFE ARE ARRESTED

Girl, 18 Months Old, Has Pneumonia Fever and Probably Will Die.

Frank Miller, 30 years old, a laborer of 311 Green Row, East St. Louis, and his wife, Mary, were arrested last night and held for the Humane Society. They have three children, 3 years, 18 months, and 2 months old, respectively, were sent to St. Mary's Hospital. The second one, a girl, is in a serious condition from pneumonia.

Neighbors told the police that for days Miller and his wife have been absent from the house all day, leaving neither food, clothing or fuel for the children. All the children were suffering from colds, and it is believed the second one will die.

BILL SEEKS TO ABOLISH RICH JOB UNDER AUDITOR

Shannon County Representative Would Do Away With Attorney's Tax Collection.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 21.—A bill doing away with attorneys appointed by the State Auditor in every county and city of St. Louis, to assist in collecting the collateral inheritance tax, was introduced by Representative F. M. Jones of Shannon County today.

The bill provides that Prosecuting Attorneys and the Attorney-General shall do the work of such attorneys. The bill would save the State 5 per cent of all collections, which are paid as fees to the special attorneys.

RUSSIAN ASSAULT AT THREE POINTS HAVING EFFECT

Advance Toward East Prussia Threatens German Lines of Communication, While Kaiser's Men Suffer Heavily in Center and Austrian Resistance Is Weak.

German Detachments Appear in Rear of Czar's Advancing Armies Northwest of Warsaw, Where Residents Aid Invaders.

Germans Lose Trenches and Take Others in France—Battles in Progress Northwest of Sennheim in Alsace.

By Associated Press.

LONDON, Jan. 21.—Russia's threefold assault on the German allies has, in the opinion of British observers of the war, resumed its steam roller characteristics alike in the north and the center and the south.

In the north the advance into East Prussia is reported as threatening the German lines of communication and in Poland the trench warfare continues with small results for either side, but the Russians confidently dwell on what they call large German losses in efforts to hold present positions. In the south the Russians declare that the Austrian resistance seems to have been broken down entirely and that Transylvania lies open to them.

Reports of Rumania's long-awaited entrance into the fight continue to circulate, one rumor today has it, however, that Rumania will not immediately declare war, that she will throw troops into Transylvania, which is Hungarian territory, for the purpose of protecting Rumanian nationals.

Meanwhile German official utterances continue optimistic. The communications given out every day say that the situation in the eastern theater of the war remains unchanged. Certain semi-official summaries of events received in London by wireless telegraphy from Berlin are somewhat more communicative. Such a message received recently says the Russians have had some success in what their leaders were heavy and that the Turks have been operating successfully in the Caucasus and are now marching on Egypt.

Telegrams reaching here from Berlin record the arrival there of Archduke Charles Francis, the Austrian Crown Prince, and Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg, the German Imperial Chancellor, who are to be joined shortly by Baron Bryan, the new Austro-Hungarian Minister of Foreign Affairs, presumably for a conference regarding a plan of campaign against Russia as well as the adoption of military measures against the prospective entrance into the war of Italy and Rumania.

Recent dispatches from Sweden indicate that a German airship attack on the new Finnish railroad between Sweden and Russia is coming to be expected. This is the line that runs around the northern end of the Gulf of Bothnia. Its destruction would be a serious blow to Russia, as the only other routes of communication between Russia and her allies are by way of the Baltic Sea, or through Archangel on the north. The former route has been made impossible by mines and the latter is likely to be cut off any day by ice.

In the western arena of the war the activity has been generally confined to artillery exchanges, except to the south of Metz, where sharp fighting premises interesting developments.

Russians Take Many More Turkish Prisoners.

PETROGRAD, Jan. 21.—The following communication from the general staff of the army of the Caucasus has been given out:

"On Jan. 19, in the region of Ahalik, Lavour and Kragant, we fought a series of combats with the Turkish rear guard, who retreated precipitately. We captured a great many prisoners and a Turkish camp."

"On Jan. 19 we occupied Ardahan, in Transcaucasia, near the Turkish frontier."

"A torpedo boat sent to inspect the sea mine zone near Archava, was captured by our forces. The following communication from general headquarters was issued yesterday:

"There is nothing of importance to report of the operations on Jan. 19, along our entire front, except the usual rifle firing and cannonading."

"In the region north of Rawa the Germans made two attempts at a partial offensive. These were stopped by our fire and the enemy was compelled to fall back."

"In the evening of Jan. 19, the Ger-in the region of the village of Vitkovice (on the left bank of the Elbe) made an attack against the head of the bridge, under the glare of searchlights, rockets and a strong fire which had been set on fire at a distance of 200 paces. This attack was repulsed by the efficient fire of our artillery.

"The same evening, in the Western Galicia field, the Germans, after conducting heavily our positions south of the small town of Adolfs and setting on fire two villages behind our positions, made an attack on them. Company detachments of the enemy reached our trenches and were prevented from further progress. They suffered heavy losses and were compelled to fall back on their position.

"In Bukovina our troops are advancing with success. They have occupied, after some fighting, the village of Ichaneschi, about 10 miles north of Watra Dorna, where they captured and made prisoners both officers and men."

French Losses Trench, but Regain It in Counter Attack
PARIS, Jan. 21.—The following official communication was issued by the War Office last night:
"Last evening the enemy gained a footing in one of our trenches to the north of Notre Dame de Lorette. This morning he was driven from it following a counter attack, leaving in our hands more than 100 prisoners.

"During the course of the night of Jan. 20-21, in the region of Albert, an attack to the south of Thiepval, which had progressed as far as our wire entanglements, was thrown back. Three successive attacks on La Boisselle met the same fate.

"In the Argonne an attack by the enemy on La Fontaine aux Charnes was repulsed after a hand-to-hand struggle."

Germans Lose and Take Trenches; Battle in Alsace Continues.
BERLIN, Jan. 21, by wireless to London.—The official statement, issued at the War Department, today, says:
"In the Western theater of war only artillery duels took place yesterday between the coast and the Lys. Trenches at Notre Dame de Lorette, which we occupied on the day before yesterday, were lost again today.

"Northeast of Arras, the French repeatedly attacked both sides of the high road from Arras to Lille, but were repulsed. Southwest of Berry-au-Bac we took two trenches from the French and kept them, notwithstanding their counter attacks.

"French attacks on our positions south of St. Mihiel were repulsed. Northwest of Pont-a-Mousson we succeeded in recapturing positions we evacuated three days ago. In that vicinity our troops captured four cannon and several prisoners. Fighting still continues for the remainder of the last trenches.

"In the Vosges, northwest of Sennheim, battles still proceed.

"The situation in East Prussia remains the same. An ultimatum to the east of Lipno ended favorably for us. One hundred prisoners remained in our hands."

German Detachments Appear in Rear of Advancing Russians.
PETERSBURG, Jan. 21.—German forces have appeared in the rear of the Russian army, which is advancing toward the Prussian border. They are along the road from Pionok, 40 miles northwest of Warsaw, to Gostolits, thus being between the advancing Russian army and the Polish capital. So far as is known, only comparatively small bodies of Germans, consisting of reconnaissance detachments, are in this locality.

The Bourse Gazette says the Russian military authorities have learned that Russo-German detachments have been seen in the vicinity of the front, when information and other assistance to the Germans. On this account the newspaper says, Grand Duke Nicholas, the Russian Commander in Chief, has ordered that all Russo-German detachments in the districts between Warsaw and the Russian front, dispose of their property within six days, preparatory to being removed to the interior of the country.

Austrians Bombard Mount Lovchen Without Effect.
PARIS, Jan. 21.—The Austrians at Cattaro, near the Montenegrin frontier, have furiously bombarded Mount Lovchen, a strong Montenegrin position just across the frontier, without effect, according to a Havre agency dispatch from Cattaro, Montenegro. The dispatch says:

"The guns of the Austrian fleet and force at Cattaro furiously bombarded Mount Lovchen for several hours. A great quantity of ammunition was expended without damaging the Montenegrin positions. A heavy fall of snow in the past few days has stopped military operations on all fronts."

German Aviators Reconnoitering Finnish-Swedish Frontier.
LONDON, Jan. 21.—A dispatch to the Edinburgh Telegraph Co. from Stockholm states that German aviators have been reconnoitering the frontier between Sweden and Finland, evidently with the purpose of destroying the bridges of the New Finnish Railroad, thus interrupting communication between Russia and Sweden.

Portuguese Send More Troops to Oppose Lisbon.
LISBON, Jan. 21.—A contingent of Portuguese troops sailed yesterday for Angola, the Portuguese possession in Western Africa, to reinforce the army there, which has been engaged with the Germans. Prior to embarking, the troops marched in review before the President and were enthusiastically cheered by the crowds.

Austrians Fall Back in Hungary, Battle Continues.
LONDON, Jan. 21.—A Budapest dispatch to the Daily Mail, describing the Russian invasion of Hungary, says:
"During the night of Jan. 18 a Russian force descending from Fiume, Moldov, in the southwest corner of Bukovina, passed over Mount Cotaui and advanced as far as Cakanechsch, near Jacobini, where the Austrian artillery was massed. These troops were supported by two other columns and their front ran through Cakanechsch, Jacobini and Valle Petri.

"To avoid being surrounded, the Austrians retired from Petschacht toward Jacobini. The fighting continued night and day during Sunday and Monday and still is proceeding."

American Girl Who Married a Prince but Not a Title, and Got a Divorce

A DIVORCE has been granted to Florence Hazard of New Jersey, known as the Princess Auerberg. She is really not a Princess because her marriage to Prince Francis Auerberg some years ago is regarded in the foreign courts as moribund. She is the pretty daughter of a well-known catnap maker of Shrewsbury, N. J., and the man she married is a real Prince. He belongs to one of the mediatized or former petty sovereign houses of Europe. When he came to this country he was pursued by debt. He lived in poverty and studied medicine graduating finally and becoming a doctor. He never used his title, but when he married the wealthy Miss Hazard she made constant use of it and was known everywhere as "Princess Auerberg." She lived with her husband for many years in New York where he practiced his profession. Six months ago she sued for divorce. The Prince is now with the Austrian army.

first set speech on the program, telling what the United States Government has done in the development of foreign trade. He was followed by Moore. The other speakers at the morning session were D. W. Kemper of the Galveston Cotton Exchange, Henry Howard of Boston, Carman F. D. Randolph of New York, who participated in the discussion on Moore's paper; John A. Arnold of Chicago, who spoke on "Foreign Banking, Loans and Credits," and Benjamin Joy of Boston, Louis E. Goldstein of New Orleans, Murray Carleton of St. Louis, A. E. de Lima and C. A. Green, also of New York.

Nearly every commercial organization in the United States is represented at the convention, as well as commercial organizations of Berlin, Paris, London, Petrograd and other important foreign trade centers.

John Bisset Moore speaks. Ex-Counselor Moore's address on the subject of "Problems Arising in War and Commerce," was regarded as one of the most important to be heard during the entire convention. Moore is regarded as the foremost American authority on international law. The complications that have arisen between the United States and the European belligerents over shipping involve intricate law points, and Moore discussed these in his speech.

Secretary Redfield's Address. Secretary Redfield, in his address, said that faulty statistics as to American exports and imports, particularly exports, had done much harm, and that they had probably, in some cases, shown an apparent balance of trade against this country; when, in fact, the balance was in this country's favor. The errors in import statistics, he said, do not seriously affect the total of imports, but on the export side, there are large discrepancies between the published statements and actual facts. He thought it possible that the export total was understated by 10 per cent, or $500,000,000 a year, and said an error of this magnitude might easily change a favorable balance into an adverse one.

This subject, he said, is of exceeding importance, in its effect on commerce.

A Logical Dyspepsia Treatment

IMPORTANCE OF ELIMINATING ACIDITY AND FOOD FERMENTATION.
During the past two or three years reports have frequently appeared in the Press concerning the remarkable value of bismuthated magnesia as an antacid; and the ability to promote normal healthy digestion by preventing food fermentation and neutralizing acids. Until recently druggists of which taken in a little water after meals, almost instantaneously all fermentation and neutralizing acids. But, as a result of a long series of experiments, leading from the manufacture of druggists has now been obtained, a new and valuable antacid, which combines all the valuable antacid properties of bismuthated magnesia in a very convenient form. This new antacid can be obtained of druggists everywhere, and is the only one that is entirely harmless to the stomach instead of the powder form—ADV.

BATLEFELD AT SOISSONS STREWN THICKLY WITH DEAD

Bodies of French Seen Everywhere by Correspondent Fourth Day After Fight.

GERMAN GAIN IMPORTANT French Retain Foothold on North Bank of Aisne Only Where Bridge Crosses.

By a Correspondent of the Associated Press.
BEFORE SOISSONS, Jan. 18, by Courier to Berlin, Jan. 20, via London, Jan. 21.—At the headquarters of the German army yesterday evening, Gen. von Kluck and his staff celebrated their success at Soissons in typical German military fashion, with a simple soldiers' meal, a bowl of punch brewed by the expert hands of Von Kluck himself, a graceful little speech by the General and a silent toast to the dead—both French and German.

The earth was still dropping on the graves of the fallen. So many men perished during the eight days of the bitter struggle for the heights across the river from the first to the last, that the fourth after the close of the battle, the plateau and gorges are still strewn thickly with dead, although 4000 members of the landsturm have been engaged without pause in clearing up the battlefield.

Most of the German dead have been given to the earth, but French infantrymen in their far-to-be-seen red and blue uniforms, swarthy-faced Turcos, colonials, Alpine riflemen and head-draped soldiers still are sprawling in attitudes along the heights, in the deep-cut gorges of the plateau and across the flat valley bed on the north shore of the Aisne.

The battle of Soissons, so called in default of a better name, although it really was fought across the river from that city, in the number of men engaged and the extent of the losses, would rank with Bull Run or Antietam of the American Civil War or with Waterloo in the Franco-Prussian War; but in this war it passes as an incident in the campaign worthy only of passing mention in the official report.

No newspaper description of the battle has been written from the German side. The Associated Press representative was the first to get to the scene, the only newspaper man to inspect the battlefield and have opportunity to supplement the brief official reports with descriptive details gathered on the spot.

The results of the German success are regarded here as highly important. The French were expelled from the heights north of the Aisne—vantage ground from which they had hoped to launch a successful attack against the big elbow in the German line—and driven across the river which now runs brimful of the debris of the battle, following its banks between the two armies.

America's Great Opportunity.
"Two of our competitors among the nations," the Secretary said, "have been removed from the world's markets. A third, Belgium, is also out. The fourth is taxed by the necessity of keeping an army in the field. These nations are having four of their great resources for foreign trade destroyed—their factories, their good will, their capital and their working force. Therefore, the efforts of the United States to produce a flurry from which the producing nations will soon recover. A manufacturer, expecting to enter the South American market, recently told me that, as a preliminary, he investigated the condition of his competitors in Europe, and found that it would take them four years to recover from the effects of the war, by which time he hoped to be so entrenched that his product could not be dislodged. If in my shop or yours the ablest mechanics were called into the field and shot, you know how it would injure your ability to produce cheaply and well. Our opportunity is vast, if only we have the vision to realize it.

"I wish I could print the language of the dispatches that come to the Department of Commerce. When you see that the department give out a paragraph of a dispatch, you will realize that it means that the dispatch itself is too strong to be printed. It is a singular thing to have the Foreign Minister of a nation wire his Ambassador at Washington that they desire us to take the place Europe has held in their trade, and yet twice have such messages recently come, either through Ambassadors or direct."

Italy, the only industrial nation in Europe which is at peace, has 1,000,000 soldiers mobilized, and is "very near the front."

One of the assistant chiefs of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, Dr. Frank B. Rutter, he said, has been detailed to the task of correcting the error, and is working to that end with the Treasury Department in the New York Custom House.

Secretary Redfield praised the University of the City of New York for establishing a course in the training of young men for foreign trade, in co-operation with exporting houses and manufacturers, with a view to developing a corps of men with all-around training in languages and the political, commercial and economic knowledge needed for a thorough understanding of export business. He expressed the hope that other universities would add similar courses.

Eight commercial attaches are now representing the Department of Commerce in foreign stations, he said, and a ninth is about to go to Petrograd, while a tenth is to go to Melbourne, Australia.

Suggests New Bank Plan.
An amendment to the Federal reserve law giving American banks authority to subscribe to the capital stock of banks in foreign countries was advocated by John J. Arnold of Chicago. His idea was to permit the banks to substitute bonds for the gold and silver to be used to back the currency.

"It certainly gives most anything to be able to put up a few pounds and stay that way," declares one of the most famous of the world's athletes, a man who is a perfect example of the power of the blood as they are when the powers of nature are at work. Instead of getting into the blood, all the fat and flesh producing elements stay in the intestine and are not absorbed. ## WHITE HOUSE BABY A 'BORN REFORMER,' SAYS HOROSCOPE

Francis Sayre Jr. Will Have Many Struggles, However, Before Realizing Ideals.

'VERY MUCH UP-TO-DATE' 'He Would Even Be Willing to Go to Prison in Defense of His Convictions.'

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—The horoscope of Francis Sayre Jr., the son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis B. Sayre, who was born at the White House, is "destined to be a born reformer."

The naming of President Wilson's grandson "Francis" instead of "Woodrow" is understood to have been the result of the President's influence. There was a strong opinion in favor of "Woodrow Wilson" and nearly all the telegrams on the birth of the child congratulated the President on the birth of "Young Woodrow."

The publisher of a newspaper in California and the President met to discuss the child and was given an opportunity of presenting the name that had been decided upon by his readers. He explained that he had started a contest among his readers to decide upon a name and the idea had spread like wild fire.

Horoscope of Francis Jr.
Miss Agnes E. Marstand gave to the Post-Dispatch this horoscope of the White House baby:

A glance at the horoscope of Francis Sayre Jr., born Jan. 17, 1915, at the White House, Washington, D. C., at 4:30 p. m. At the moment of this child's birth the mystical planet Neptune was just appearing above the horizon. Neptune is the planet of the new era and being prominent in the chart of the White House baby would indicate that he is destined to become a born reformer.

There are indications that this child is born with a special mission in support of the people. He is a child of the new era, a child of the future, and he will be a leader in the world. He will be a leader in the world, and he will be a leader in the world. He will be a leader in the world, and he will be a leader in the world. He will be a leader in the world, and he will be a leader in the world.

Clear Mental Vision.
Our earth is just entering the Aquarian age, and therefore we find the President's grandson with four out of nine planets positioned in the sign of the zodiac, Aquarius.

This shows that he will be very much up to date. Mercury, the ruler of his mind, is there, giving him advanced ideas and clear mental vision. Uranus is near to Mercury and gives him a keen sense of the future, a much-desired sixth sense; the moon, standing for the common people, and Jupiter, representing the great in the land, are there in close conjunction, indicating that his life work will lie in harmonizing these opposites.

The sun and Mars in Capricorn give him an aspiring, ambitious nature with good business ability and organizing qualities.

The position of Saturn, retrograde in the twelfth house, shows that he will have many disappointments and handicaps in the attainment of his desires. He will suffer through treachery and lack of appreciation from the masses in whose behalf he is working; but the fixed signs give him the tenacity to persevere until he has surmounted all his difficulties.

Fond of Company.
He is naturally fond of company and pleasure, of a kind, general disposition; but as he is far excellence an idealist and dreamer there will be times when he will desire solitude.

He cannot fail to have many a hard struggle and many a failure in realizing his ideals, but the end of his life shows a most beautiful fruition of his hopes and wishes. Having gone through the thick of the fight, he attains to honor and popularity, to happiness and peace.

FRENCH REPORT REVIEWS TWO MONTHS' SUCCESSSES

War Office Declares Germans Have Been Shoved Back Everywhere Except at Soissons—French Losses Reduced Four-Fifths.

By Associated Press.
PARIS, Jan. 21.—There was given out this afternoon an official statement under the caption, "The War from Nov. 15 to Jan. 15," reading as follows:
"Since the 15th of November, in other words since the conclusion of the battle of Ypres and up to the complete resumption of the great German offensive movement against our left wing, the war has taken the character of a siege. In such a warfare it generally is expected that the advantages obtained by one side or the other virtually offset each other. But in this case it can be said that with one exception we alone have gained ground. With this one exception, the Germans everywhere have gone back.

Results Obtained by Both.
"The following recital of points gained makes it possible to get an idea of the progress of either side:
"By the Germans: Destruction of the market of the cathedral and of the hospital of Ypres; destruction of the town of Neuport and of the railway station and the bombardment of Arras, Bethune and Arras. Bombardment of Soupir and Soissons; recapture of Hill No. 132 and of an eminence near Crouy, and a gain of from 1200 to 1800 yards to the north of Soissons; advance of 300 meters (327 yards) in the Argonne along a front of 800 meters at a point near the Brook des Meurlans; bombardment of a church at Nancy and of the hospital at Thann.

"Results obtained by the French from the sea to the Lys; recapture of all the left bank of the Yser between Knoke and Hettae and an opening on the right bank between the sea and St. Georges. The installation of a bridge head four kilometers (two miles and a half) into this region and the installation of a bridge head to the south of Dinant. Capture of St. Georges and of the house of the factoryman and of Kortek; the general extension of our front around Ypres; the success of Wybeldrecht; and the cessation of the attacks of the enemy's infantry.

"From the Lys to Oise: The capture of the chateau and of the village of Vermelle and of Rutoire; the capture of numerous German trenches between Ais-Noulette and Carenay; the partial recapture of Saint Laurent and of Blangy near Arras; the capture of La Boisselle; the capture of the bridge at Lihons, the capture of Quenoy-en-Santerre the end of October and progress to the east followed by general extension and consolidation of our front.

Infantry Losses Required.
"From the Oise to the Somme: The capture of the German trenches at Nampcel and of the Plateau of Nouron; the taking of spur No. 133 and of the eminence at Crouy, both of which, however, we lost again; the destruction of numerous pieces of German artillery; the reduction by four-fifths of our previous percentage of infantry losses; thanks to the greatest efficiency of our artillery and the consolidation of our defensive system.

"From Rheims to the Meuse: Advance of one kilometer (two-thirds of a mile) in the region of Prunay; advance of more than two kilometers in the region of Perthe and the stopping of 17 German counter attacks; the advance of nearly one kilometer in the Argonne, in the Forest of La Grurie, and of Bouleaux, and the repelling of numerous attacks; the extension of our front in the neighborhood of Verdun and the destruction of numerous German batteries.

"From the Meuse to the Swiss frontier—Important advances in the forest of Consenvoye, in the forest of Apremont, in the forest of Ailly, in the forest of Mortmare and in the forest of Le Prefre, the checking of all the German attacks here, progress to the northeast of Nancy in a locality called the forest of Parroy, progress to the north and to the south of Senones and in the entire neighborhood of Ban de Sapt, capture of the Tete de Lion, which commands Sainte Marie, and of the Tete de Faux, the complete checking of 34 counter attacks delivered by the enemy; the capture of Aspas and of the village of the heights to the east of the last mentioned place, and progress in the direction of Munster, Cernay and Aitkirch.

"Summing up, we get 10 general advances on the part of our troops which were distinctly perceptible at certain places, as compared to 20 general withdrawals on the part of the enemy, always with the exception of the situation to the northeast of Soissons.

Allies Strengthening Armies.
"This is a comparison of the last two months. To complete it, it should be added that first the German offensive in Poland has been restrained for a month past; second, the Russian offensive continues in Galicia and the Carpathian Mountains, and third, the Turkish army in the Caucasus has been annihilated; fourth, Germany has exhausted her resources (an average of 12 officers to a regiment) and will not in the future be able to develop her resources in effective men except at the expense of the existing units; fifth, the armies of the allies, on the contrary, are finding it possible to further strengthen themselves to a measurable degree.

"It can consequently be affirmed that to obtain final victory, it is sufficient that France and her allies know how to wait for it and at the same time prepare for it with inexhaustible patience.

"The German offensive has been broken; the German defensive will be broken in its turn."

"AIRSHIPS" MADE RAID ON ENGLAND; 4 PERSONS KILLED

Experts Believe Nonrigid Balloons of Parseltal Type Bombed Towns.

MUCH PROPERTY DAMAGED
Effects of Bombs Said to Have Been More Terrific Than of Cruisers' Shells.

LONDON, Jan. 21.—The German airships—for they are thus described by the German official report—which paid a four-hour visit to the coast towns of Norfolk Tuesday night, dropped twenty or more bombs. The raiders' missiles killed four persons, injured ten or more others, and did considerable damage to property. The report that a fifth person, a soldier, had been killed proved incorrect.

Yarmouth and King's Lynn, the largest towns visited, suffered the heaviest damage. Eight bombs were dropped in the former town, one of them killing an old man and an old woman, injuring three others and smashing every window within a radius of several hundred yards. In King's Lynn a woman and boy were killed by bombs which demolished a row of cottages.

The aircraft also visited Cromer, which, however, was not attacked; Sheringham, where four bombs were dropped; Dorrington, Grimsby, Eastham and Heacham, each of which received one missile. Snettisham and Heacham are within three miles of the King's Sandringham residence. Near the former place, where the windows of the village church were shattered, Queen Mother Alexandra has a summer bungalow.

What composed the raiding fleet is still a matter of discussion. Maj. Astley, who commands the national reserve at King's Lynn, says that as the result of information received by him, he will report officially that one of the latest Zeppelin dirigibles took part. Some persons declare they saw huge airships, but others assert only aeroplanes and seaplanes participated.

Aeronautical experts are of the opinion, from the size of the bombs dropped—that airships of the small non-rigid Parseltal type were employed, and as the German official account refers to "airships" it is presumed these were the craft used. They can be built more quickly than Zeppelins, but are slower and carry less ammunition.

TAX FORTUNES TO ASSIST THE POOR, SAYS GUGGENHEIM

Head of Big Smelting Company Also Wants Workmen to Share in Profits of Industry.

WORK, NOT CHARITY, NEED

Witness Before Industrial Relations Commission Advocates Ideas of Socialism.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Taxation of large fortunes, upon the death of their owners, to aid the poor, the establishment of Government agencies to find work for the unemployed and provision for the comfort of aged workers, were advocated by Daniel Guggenheim, president of the American Smelting and Refining Co., in testimony today at the inquiry by the Federal Commission on Industrial Relations into the great philanthropic foundations and the causes of industrial unrest.

Mr. Guggenheim said that as a capitalist he favored these measures, despite the fact that they constituted some of the cardinal ideas of socialism. He also advocated "industrial democracy," wherein the worker received a portion of the profit derived from the products of his labor.

Industrial unrest was caused to a great extent, the witness believed, by the increased cost of living. In his opinion the philanthropic organizations did not affect much relief from poverty, as the average worker was reluctant to accept charity and preferred employment.

E. J. Berwind Testifies.
E. J. Berwind, owner of coal mines and director in many coal mining corporations and coal-carrying railroads, testified that he believed directors and stockholders were not as well acquainted with labor conditions as they should be.

Mr. Guggenheim said he kept himself advised as to labor conditions among his employees and that he personally paid frequent visits to the various plants. The executive committees of the various companies, he said, often visited plants and mines and kept themselves informed as to conditions. For the last year his health had not been good, the witness said, but that prior to that he had regularly visited plants in New Jersey, Colorado, Missouri, Washington and Mexico. Mr. Guggenheim said in the mining business the directors and not the stockholders were absolutely responsible for labor and other conditions.

For devices for improving the conditions of workers, the witness said, the American Smelting and Refining Co. had installed many things, not only to improve labor conditions, but to raise the standard of efficiency. The company found that by so doing the output was increased and business generally was improved.

Workers should be taught to save, Guggenheim testified. They could not save now because they didn't get enough money to permit them to do so; but they could save, he said, if they received, as they should, a part of the profits of the industries in which they were employed.

The witness said emphatically that he did not believe laborers in smelting and refining works should be permitted to work more than eight hours a day. The increasing cost of living, the witness believed, was the cause of unrest among workers.

Wage earners, he thought, had as much right to organize as capitalists. The American Smelting and Refining Co. had no objection to organizers going among the employees, provided they did not interfere with the operation of the plants. Mr. Guggenheim said he believed industrial discontent was on the increase and had been for some years.

"And it will continue to increase, unless some remedial measures are taken," he said. "The trouble is we haven't had enough legislation. We are away behind Europe. We need more business legislation."

Guggenheim said he "didn't want to advertise" the philanthropic organization with which he was connected. "I don't want to tell what I've done," he said. "I've done all that I can. I don't think any of us gives enough. I'll tell you, though, that I am interested in many hospitals, homes and societies."

BANKERS URGE MISSOURI PACIFIC TO RETAIN BUSH

Five Concerns Unite in Sending Out Call for Proxies for Annual Meeting.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—It became known here today that interests representing the Guaranty Trust Co., the Bankers' Trust Co., the Central Trust Co. and Kuhn, Loeb & Co. of New York and Kidder, Peabody & Co. of Boston, had addressed a letter to the stockholders of the Missouri Pacific Railroad Co. stating their willingness to act as a proxy committee at the annual meeting of the company to be held in St. Louis on March 9 next.

The proposed committee recommends, among other things, an extension for at least one year, of the $25,000,000 4 per cent notes expiring June 1 and a material reduction of existing fixed charges. It also recommends adequate provision for meeting maturing obligations and for future capital requirements.

Benjamin F. Bush, president of the Missouri Pacific, is highly commended by the bankers for his management of the road, and his continuance in office is urged. Bankers believe, however, that a radical change in the present personnel of the directorate would be in accord with the sentiments of the company's security holders.

The Gould family not only has withdrawn from the Missouri Pacific Railroad, but it virtually is on the point of retiring from the railroad business entirely. This fact was admitted by Finley J. Shepard, the St. Louisan, who recently married Helen Gould.

Mrs. Shepard is the only member of the family who has steadily held to her Missouri Pacific stock, and today owns 4413 shares, while the rest of the Gould family owns only 597 shares out of a total of 530,000. Shepard owns 1100 shares.

BILL WOULD TAKE DEPUTY WARDEN'S HOME FROM HIM

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 21.—Representative I. T. Curry of Douglas County introduced a bill in the House today to repeal the 1913 act, which appropriated $10,000 with which the State bought and furnished a residence for the deputy warden of the penitentiary. The bill provides that the residence be sold to the highest bidder and the money returned to the State Treasury.

Following the announcement that the bill would be introduced, Deputy Warden Porter Gilvin was on the ground early today talking to legislators.

Representative James Bowers of Wayne County introduced a resolution today demanding that the clerk of the Supreme Court submit to the Legislature an itemized statement of all bar examination fees paid to and disbursed by his office. Bowers said that the examining board appointed by the Supreme Court had collected approximately $40,000 since its creation 10 years ago and had made no reports. Each applicant is charged $10 for the privilege of taking the examination.

Governor's Reward Offer Reveals Frank Hayden as Suspect; Police-Raising $2000.

A proclamation from Gov. Major's office, offering the usual $300 reward for the capture of the slayer of Sgt. Michael F. Gibbons, disclosed publicly today for the first time that the police have information upon which they seek Frank Hayden, safe-blower and ex-convict, as the murderer.

Sgt. Gibbons was shot to death Jan. 9 by safe blowers who were robbing the safe in the Delmar Station of the Washburn Railroad, at 6101 Delmar boulevard.

The Governor's proclamation names Frank Schafnisky, known as "Frenchy" Smith, as Hayden's accomplice in the Delmar Station robbery and murder.

Detectives, working on the Gibbons' murder, have found persons who identified the gallery photographs of Hayden and Smith as two men seen loitering in the vicinity of the Delmar Station before the robbery.

Both Hayden and Smith have several penitentiary sentences. They shot their way to freedom about four years ago when found in a lumber yard near Wellston. Shortly after that they served three years in prison for a safe robbery at St. Joseph, Mo. Federal authorities had intended to rearrest them upon other charges as soon as they finished their sentences, but somehow the safe blowers managed to get out of prison without being rearrested.

A series of daring safe robberies, especially in the vicinity of Grand avenue, between Delmar boulevard and Finney avenue, preceded the Delmar Station robbery.

Members of the Police Department today began subscribing to a fund to be used as an additional reward for the capture of Gibbons' slayers. Heads of bureau subscribed from $3 to $5 each and Sergeants and patrolmen usually gave about $1. As the department membership numbers 1600 men, it is expected more than $2000 will be raised.

It has been suggested that if the slayers are never taken, the reward raised by policemen be turned over to Gibbons' family. The widow yesterday received a check for $1380, representing a year's wages at the rate of a Sergeant's pay of $125 a month. She also will receive $2000 from the Police Relief Association.

BILL TO HAVE ALL BREAD HAULED IN WAGONS WRAPPED

Exemption Provided for Those Who Dispose of Product in Their Own Bakeries.

Bread delivered by wagon will have to be wrapped in a sanitary manner, but small bakers may display their bread in the shop without wrapping it under the terms of a bill to be reported by the Sanitary Affairs Committee of the House of Delegates next Tuesday.

Dr. R. Emmet Owen, chairman of the committee, will offer an amendment exempting bread displayed in shops, which he says will be sufficiently protected by the purchaser in carrying it home.

Delegate Anthony P. Singer, of the Twelfth Ward, author of the bill, conducted experiments to test the statement of bakers at a recent public hearing, that wrapping bread when it was hot would make it soggy. Singer said he could not find much difference between the wrapped bread and the unwrapped product taken from the same oven.

Wrapped Bread Not Soggy.
The wrapped bread does not get soggy, Singer found, and pointed to the fact that a large demand for such bread exists in St. Louis and some of the most popular brands of bread are wrapped in airtight paper covers.

The argument that bread will get soggy if wrapped was used by bakers in twice defeating a similar bill in the Assembly in the last two years. Several of the largest bakeries have a custom of wrapping bread upon demand. One concern reported to the committee that it wraps only about 4 per cent of its bread in response to customers' requests.

Dr. Owen said the committee was unanimously in favor of protecting the bread from the dirt and disease it encounters while in the hands of drivers, but the committee considered it unnecessary to compel the small baker to wrap bread that is delivered to customers in the shop.

"I have personally seen drivers of bread wagons take an armful of unwrapped bread upon the dirty sleave of an overcoat, dropping some of it that escaped from beneath the pressure of their chin," said Dr. Owen.

Wrapping Only Protection.
"Drivers will not throw away bread which is accidentally dropped in the street, and the only way to protect the public is to compel bakers to wrap each loaf before it is placed on a delivery wagon."

At a hearing a week ago a score of bakers opposed the bill and none spoke in favor of it. Health Commissioner Starkloff is the author of the first measure introduced, two years ago. Singer introduced the pending bill on his own initiative. It may not be acted upon by the House within a week after it is reported, and must pass in the Council before reaching the Mayor.

Steel Magnate Mistaken for a Hotel Detective

Stenographer Surprised to Learn Identity of James A. Farrell, First Trade Convention Delegate to Register; He's Early Riser

Miss Sarah M. Hawley, public stenographer, at 8:45 a. m. today, was at a desk in the Moorish room on the parlor floor of the Planters Hotel awaiting the arrival of several efficient young women assistants whom she had engaged to aid her in registering the names of delegates to the National Foreign Trade Convention.

She was there so early because it was necessary for her to look over the blank forms on which the delegates were to enter their names and to see that all would be in readiness when the delegates began to register. This, she thought, would be about 9 a. m.

The elevator, coming down, stopped at the parlor floor. A man stepped out. He was tall and he had a gray mustache. He walked over to the Moorish room, tipped his hat, and said "good morning" to Miss Hawley.

The trained business woman, bending over her registration lists, returned the salutation. Quickly appraising the visitor with a sidelong glance, and taking into account the early morning hour, she decided that her caller must be the hotel detective.

Talked of the Weather.
Yes, the weather was nice; a trifle cold, but very reasonable for this time of year.

Wasn't the young lady up rather early? Why, yes, but this was an emergency. One of the most important conventions ever held in St. Louis was about to open and she was preparing for the registration of delegates from all parts of the world.

"Who's going to be here for this convention?" asked the sociable caller. "O, all the big men in the United States," said Miss Hawley. "The men that control the country's manufactures are coming."

Wrote His Name First.
"What are all these books and lists and papers for?" asked the early morning visitor. "To register the delegates' names," said Miss Hawley.

"Has anybody registered yet?" "Why, no. They don't get up so early." "It would be a joke if I put my name at the top of the list, wouldn't it?" "Yes," said Miss Hawley, "but, of course, you couldn't get into the convention unless you had the proper credentials."

The early morning visitor took one of the registration blanks and wrote across the top line: "James A. Farrell, president United States Steel Corporation."

"My goodness!" said Miss Hawley. "Why didn't you tell me I never would have expected to see you here at this hour."

"No, I was a little late in getting up this morning," said Farrell.

The United States Steel Corporation has a capital of more than $1,000,000,000 and the interests represented by Farrell were recognized as being so important that he was unanimously chosen as chairman of the convention.

When a Post-Dispatch reporter saw Farrell, several hours after his early morning conversation with Miss Hawley, the president of the biggest corporation in the United States was in more serious mood. "I have seen several newspaper men," he said, "and I have told them I have nothing to say in advance of my opening speech at the convention."

"I understand you were up pretty early this morning," said the reporter. "Yes," said Farrell, smiling, "and I met a very charming young lady."

"Is early rising one of your regular habits?" "Why, yes. We're all trained to that in the steel business. Early rising is one of the secrets of success. You have a chance to beat the other fellow to something, you know."

"Ability to Deliver the Goods."
The reporter asked Farrell whether, as head of the country's biggest corporation, he would say what other qualifications, besides early rising, is necessary for success in business.

"Nothing except ability to deliver the goods," said Farrell.

It was suggested that many similar organizations to the Steel Company have undertaken a sort of personal supervision over the habits of their employees.

"The United States Steel Corporation doesn't believe in that and has never done it," said Farrell. "In a broad sense we believe that man should live a moral life, but we do not tell a man that he must not drink or smoke. If his drinking or smoking makes him inefficient we soon find it out. If he can drink and smoke without destroying his efficiency, he has a chance to go right straight to the top. Results are what we are looking for."

The pictures reproduced by the intaglio of Roto-gra-vure process are actually better than the original photographs. The big Sunday Post-Dispatch, beginning next Sunday, will issue the first Roto-gra-vure Picture Supplement ever issued west of the Mississippi River, and will keep it up every Sunday.

WOMEN TO OPEN TWILIGHT SLEEP ADVICE BUREAU

New York Office to Supply Doctors and Mothers With Information on Subject.

By Lensed Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Women interested in childbirth are to organize a New York headquarters for information and advice on the "twilight sleep" anesthesia as developed at Freiburg, in Germany.

At the first meeting of the women in the Hotel McAlpine, three women whose babies had been born in Freiburg under the new painless method and four mothers who took the treatment in this city, told of their experiences and exhibited their babies.

The aim of the committee is to establish a New York office, where both women and physicians all over the country can write for information. Miss Marguerite Tracy, who studied the method in Germany, read the reports of several hospitals.

Mrs. Francis X. Carmody, whose baby was born six months ago yesterday, was the first speaker introduced by the temporary chairman, Mrs. Mary Ware Denett. Mrs. Carmody said that faith in the very first article she read sent her to Freiburg.

Tells of Her Experience.
"I have had three children born in this country by the old method and one born in 'twilight sleep,'" she continued. "I can hardly say how emphatically I endorse this wonderful boon."

"I determined to go to Freiburg, and see just how much there was to this treatment. I was put in a quiet blue room the night before my baby was born. I hadn't had any pain when the first dose of scopolamin was given to me."

"I sank into a restful sleep, and awoke the next morning just as I do every day of my life. I had a peculiar momentary feeling that something had happened, but having had three other babies, I was convinced that nothing could have happened. The nurse came in and asked me how I felt."

"I told her that I was splendid. She walked over to a cradle and handed me the precious little bundle. The third day after his birth I went automobiling; the sixth day I was one of the members of his christening party. The wife broke out, and when baby was six weeks old we left hurriedly for Switzerland."

Mrs. Temple Emmett, who has gone to Freiburg three times for "twilight sleep" treatment for her last three babies, endorsed all Mrs. Carmody said.

350,000 EDITION OF NEW ROTOGRAVURE SECTION

Post-Dispatch Prints Largest Number of Copies for Sunday Newspaper Ever Issued—14
Tons of Calendered Paper Used.

The largest edition ever issued in the world, of a newspaper rotogravure picture section, is the edition of approximately 350,000 copies which has been published as a part of next Sunday's issue of the Post-Dispatch.

Great interest has been aroused in the new process of illustration, which the Post-Dispatch is the first paper in this West to introduce. It is believed that the sale of next Sunday's Post-Dispatch will be limited only by the size of the edition, and news dealers report that large advance orders are being placed with them by their regular customers and others who wish to be sure of getting a copy.

Since the Post-Dispatch, years ago, printed the first comic section, and the first picture section in color, was the Post-Dispatch, no innovation has been made which is of such importance and interest to newspaper readers as the introduction of rotogravure illustrations. The four-page rotogravure section is to be a permanent feature of the Post-Dispatch.

Portraits Not Copied.

Those who have seen the sample sheets in the windows of the Post-Dispatch office, containing war and current news pictures in rotogravure, know its superiority over the old halftone process, hitherto used for reproducing photographs. Those who get Sunday's paper will see a much finer example of the marvels of the new method, in the portraits of St. Louis society young women which will appear on its first page. These portraits, the work of the most skilled photographers, are not copied, as in the old method, but are duplicated, with all the delicate shading of features, and all the fleecy, filmy effect of lace and fine dress fabrics that appear in the photographs.

Rotogravure is etching, or the intaglio process, adapted to the printing, on rotary presses, of the large editions required for the modern newspaper. In mechanical method, as well as in artistic effect, it is radically different from the half-tone method. The half-tone plate is a group of raised dots, projecting from the cylinder of the press and making an impression in practically the same manner as ordinary type. But the rotogravure plate is not a series of elevations, but a series of depressions, in a copper cylinder. These depressions are filled with a fine, specially prepared ink, and the impression is made on the paper by a process of suction, in which rubber rollers figure.

Rotogravure, the climax of modern illustrative art, was developed and perfected in Germany. Cotton printing and wall paper figures have, for almost a century past, been made by what is, substantially, the same method, but it was only 15 years ago that Dr. Mertens, in Freiburg, Germany, began to print cards of one color by a method of depression, instead of impression. He did this on a hand press. A few years ago, Dr. Rudolph Mosse, owner of the Berliner Tageblatt, made the first practical use of a rotary, or web device, for newspaper illustration by rotogravure. Thirty-five periodicals in Europe, including journals in Paris, London, Moscow and Madrid, now make regular use of the rotogravure process. The Berliner Tageblatt issues two rotogravure sections a week, and the Hamburger Fremdenblatt prints, or printed until recently, a daily 4-page supplement in rotogravure.

Introduced in America, Year Ago.

The first use of the process in the United States was made about a year ago, and newspapers in New York, Boston, Philadelphia and Cleveland have greatly increased the circulation of their Sunday editions by beautiful rotogravure sections, similar to the one which will hereafter be a part of the Sunday Post-Dispatch.

The rotogravure press is made in Germany, and hitherto the only place of manufacture has been the city of Muelhausen, in Alsace, which was taken and retaken in the first months of the war. A plant for the manufacture of these presses has been equipped in Wursburg, Bavaria. The ink, which at first was solely a German product, is now made also in the United States. The processes of etching and printing are intricate, but the most fascinating feature of the work to the general observer is furnished by the movements of the keen, thin knife which moves over the surface of the etched plate after the ink is applied, scraping the copper surface clean, and leaving the ink only in the depressions, whence it is sucked out, by the pressure of rubber rollers and imprinted on the paper. No detail of modern machinery comes nearer to sentient human intelligence than does "the doctor," as this knife is called by the skilled workman who applies the process.

Ninety-six hours—four days and nights—were consumed in the printing of the first issue of the Post-Dispatch rotogravure section. Fourteen tons of heavy calendered paper, and a ton and one-fourth of ink were used.

EIGHT NINE RIOTERS SENTENCED

Former Union Officials Get Big Fines for Conspiracy.

FORT SMITH, Ark., Jan. 21.—Seven of the 20 defendants in the criminal case growing out of the rioting in the Prairie Creek Coal Mine district last July, were sentenced yesterday following their pleas of guilty, as follows: Peter R. Stewart, McAlester, Ok., former president of the United Mine Workers of America of Oklahoma, $100; James B. McNamara, former Councilman of Hartford, 2 years in penitentiary and fined $100; James Skankard, former Constable of Hartford, and Fred W. Holt, recent candidate for Governor of Oklahoma, six months in jail and fined $100 each; Clint Burris, Sandy Robinson and John Manick, miners, six months in jail and fined $100 each.

Samuel Branch was sentenced to six months in jail and fined $1000 today after he had surrendered and pleaded guilty. Officials had not been able to locate him since his indictment last November.

All the men were charged with conspiracy against the Government, the cases being based upon violation of an injunction intended to prevent interference with the mines of the Bache-Danman Coal Co. The cases of the 12 other defendants were nolle prossed.

WAR SUFFERERS' BENEFIT CONCERT REALIZES $1000

Entertainment Under Belgian, Scottish and French Relief Fund Auspices a Pleasing Success.

The concert given under the auspices of the Scottish Clans, the Societe Francaise and the Caledonian Society at the Odeon last night, for the benefit of Belgium, French and Scotch war sufferers, realized $1000 for the relief fund, the total of which is now about $10,000, and proved to be a pleasing musical entertainment.

The program was varied and interesting, including pipe numbers by the United Scottish Pipe Band, Scottish ballads sung by William Porteous, a scene from "Aida," with Miss Anna Belle Clark as Aida and Miss Olga Hamduchen as Amneris; a scene from "Cavalleria Rusticana," sung by Mrs. Morris Skrainka, James Rohan, Mrs. Greiner-Nelson and Louis Templeman; an aria from "La Boheme," sung by James Rohan, with an English ballad as an encore; a scene from "Thais," with Mrs.

Skrainka as Thais and Louis Templeman as Athanas; quartet numbers by Miss Black and Bollmann and Messrs. Porteous and Mackenzie, and other attractive offerings. Arthur Lieber and Mrs. Berry-Mayer were the piano accompanists for several numbers, and Miss Agnes Gray, violinist, played the "Meditation from Thais," with fine accuracy. The program closed with the company and audience joining in the singing of "Auld Lang Syne."

During the intermission Dr. Alexander DeMenil, chairman of the Belgian Relief Fund Committee, spoke briefly, outlining the committee's work, thanking all who assisted, and announcing that a fair or bazaar now was being contemplated for the fund benefit.

Fatal Earthquake in Spain.

LONDON, Jan. 21.—A Madrid dispatch says that owing to lack of communication the news has just been received of an earthquake on Jan. 2 which did great damage in 18 villages in the region of Asturias, Northern Spain. In one village a score of persons were killed.

LOSES SUIT AGAINST FARMER

Man Asked $200,000, Alleging His Daughter Was Attacked.

MONTGOMERY, Mo., Jan. 21.—J. L. Wagner lost his suit for $200,000 in the Circuit Court here against James Whiteside, a wealthy farmer, who was accused of attacking Wagner's daughter, Ella Wagner. The jury was out only a short time.

Ella Wagner testified that Whiteside was the father of her 8-year-old son. Whiteside denied the charge.

TWO MEN IN AUTO ROB AUTOIST

Man Held Up on Street as He Tinkered With His Car.

James H. Capell, of 254 Olive street, told the police that while he was tinkering with his auto at Vandeventer avenue and West Pine boulevard, about 8:30 o'clock last night, two men drove up in a red machine and ordered him to throw up his hands. One of them pointed a revolver at him, he said, while the other took $50 from his pockets.

The car used by the robbers bore no license, Capell said.

PENSION TO WIDOW OF MAN WHO DIED TO SAVE ANOTHER

Mrs. Patrick Moriarty of 402A Cote Brilliante avenue will receive a pension from the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission, in recognition of the bravery of her husband, who lost his life July 4 last, in the effort to rescue a fellow workman from a gas-filled manhole in Forest Park. A medal, to commemorate Moriarty's deed, will also be given to the widow. This was one of 45 awards announced by the commission at its meeting in Pittsburgh yesterday. Moriarty and Timothy Talbot, whom he tried to rescue, were sewer department employees, Moriarty being foreman.

Talbot was rescued by others, after Moriarty, in the effort to help him, had left his place of safety and gone to death in the manhole.

The pension amounts to $25 a month with an additional $5 a month for each of Moriarty's younger children, Joseph, 14 years old, and Helen, 12 years old. The pension on the children's account is to remain in force until each reaches the age of 16 years. There are two other children in the family who have been the sole support of their mother. They are Miss Nona, 20 years old, employed in a downtown wholesale house, and James, 18 years old, who is employed in a railroad office.

Mrs. Moriarty said that the pension would enable her to give the two younger children a good education and equip them to secure good positions.

The new Roto-gra-vure Picture Supplement to be issued on next Sunday, Jan. 24, for the first time west of the Mississippi River, will be a permanent and exclusive part of the big Sunday Post-Dispatch.

ACTION BLOCKED ON JUSTICE BILL IN LEGISLATURE

John J. Moroney, St. Louis Democrat, Keeps Reform Measure From the House.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 21.—Opposition of Democratic politicians in St. Louis to a reform of the justice of the peace system in the city developed in the House yesterday over a bill modeled along the lines of the Municipal Courts bill, which has three times been killed through the influence of politicians who sought to perpetuate the present system in the minor courts of St. Louis.

John J. Moroney, Democratic member from the Third District in St. Louis, yesterday succeeded in keeping the Justice of the Peace bill in the Committee on Municipal Corporations after the House had voted to request that committee to return the bill that it might be referred to the Committee on Justices of the Peace, to which it properly belongs.

Moroney is a member of the Municipal Corporations Committee, and with the bill in that committee, it is always under his eye, and he is in a position to have a voice in determining whether it shall ever be reported. Through many sessions Moroney has fought to kill the municipal courts bill.

Provisions of the Bill.

The Justices of the Peace bill was introduced by John C. Robertson of St. Louis. Robertson is a lawyer and a former Justice of the Peace.

His bill provides that Justices of the Peace shall be elected at large in St. Louis and that each shall have jurisdiction throughout the city. It places each Justice on a salary of $3000 a year and provides for a reduction in the number of Justices from 11 to 7. Each Justice, the bill provides, must be a licensed attorney.

One clerk is provided for, to be elected by the Justices. There are to be such deputy clerks as are required. One Constable is provided for in the bill, his salary to be $2500 a year. Deputy clerks and Constables shall be paid $1800 a year. In addition to his salary, the Constable is allowed 2½ per cent of all amounts collected by him on execution.

The bill does not require that all the Justices shall be in one building, but provides that the Board of Aldermen shall provide suitable rooms and offices, which shall be centrally located. The bill is opposed by ward politicians, as was the Municipal Courts bill in previous sessions, for the reason that it would abolish many jobs of Constables and would break up the political organizations in the Justice of the Peace districts in St. Louis.

Democrats Fear Loss of Offices.

Democrats are opposing it on the additional ground that under the present system the Democrats are able to elect some Justices and Constables, and they fear that if such officers are elected at large the Republicans will win all of the jobs.

The controlling interest of the opposition, however, is the danger of breaking up the organizations, through which political bosses are able to reward faithful henchmen or get the jobs for themselves.

The qualification that a Justice must be a practicing attorney would end the present system of ward politicians having themselves elected Justices of the Peace, practiced in many of the districts in St. Louis.

Robertson's bill was introduced a week ago. It was referred by Speaker Boyd to the Municipal Corporations Committee, of which Moroney is a member. Yesterday Robertson requested that it be taken from that committee and sent to the Committee on Justices of the Peace, of which he is a member.

Moroney objected. He said that he was opposed to having the bill in Robertson's committee. Speaker Boyd said that it was customary to refer a bill to any committee the member introducing it desired, but Representative Frank H. Farris made the point that Boyd had no power to take the bill out of the Municipal Corporations Committee.

Motion to Return Bill to House.

Robertson then offered a motion that the committee be instructed to return the bill to the House. Farris objected to the form of the motion. He said that the committee should be requested, not instructed. Robertson changed his motion.

The Municipal Corporations Committee met yesterday afternoon. Moroney was present. The committee voted to refuse the request of the House and to retain possession of the bill. The only Democrats on the committee voting to return the bill were Representatives Dunn of Cole County and Bowers of Wayne County.

Robertson said this morning that he would renew his motion and that he would ask that the House order the Municipal Corporations Committee to return the bill.

ALTON MAN'S SON SLAIN BY HIS WIFE'S FORMER HUSBAND

C. W. Pillsbury Killed in Oakland, Cal.—Recently Has Finished Term in Navy.

C. W. Pillsbury of Central avenue, Alton, received a telegram yesterday, informing him that his son, George, had been murdered in Oakland, Cal. The killing, according to a news dispatch from Oakland, was done by John F. Turner, former husband of Pillsbury's wife. Turner is in jail. He says he is glad he killed Pillsbury.

Pillsbury's wife and Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Neighbors, with whom the Pillsburys had been spending the evening, were arrested, but were later released. The woman, before her marriage to Pillsbury, obtained an interlocutory divorce from Turner.

Pillsbury was 24 years old. He obtained employment in Oakland when he had finished a term of enlistment in the navy. His body will be brought to Alton for interment.

FIVE MORE VIOLATORS OF OLEO LAW PLEAD GUILTY

All Will Be Sentenced Monday—Two Have Been Convicted by a Jury.

Five more violators of the oleo act pleaded guilty in Federal Court today. They were Michael J. Duffy of 3044 Sheridan avenue, Walter R. Morris, who keeps a stand at Union Market;

Joseph B. Music, who was employed by Morris, and Cornelius G. Knott and Charles E. Haglin, who have been conducting the Ideal Creamery at 3119 Pine street.

Duffy was indicted jointly with his brothers, John and Martin. After Michael had pleaded guilty he took the stand and testified that John had no connection with the business. John, he said, was a plumber, and merely happened to be visiting at Michael's home when the raid was made. John also testified that he had been employed as a plumber for 16 years by one firm. The case against him was dismissed.

The other brother, Martin, according to Michael's statement, is only in the city part of the time. He has not been arrested. Morris, Music, Knott, and Haglin pleaded guilty through their attorneys. All are to appear in court Monday to receive sentence. This makes nine who have pleaded guilty and two who have been convicted by a jury.

NEGRO BEAT WAGON, NOT HORSE

John Thomas, a negro, living at 3209 Papin street, who was arrested Friday, charged by Patrolman Highley with beating a horse with a board at Grand and Chouteau avenues, brought four witnesses before Judge Hogan today. They testified that Thomas was beating the side of the wagon and not the horse. He was discharged.

ed he told the policeman it would be better for the police to try to get "highway people" and not interfere with workers.

EATING MEAT REGULARLY CLOGS THE KIDNEYS, CAUSING PAINS IN THE BACK

Don't fail to flush your Kidneys occasionally with a tablespoonful of harmless fruit Salts to avoid danger.

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is harmless to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity.

Jad Salts is harmless; inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everybody should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean, thus avoiding serious complications. A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble. ADV.

LABORER STABBED TO DEATH, TWO INJURED IN A FIGHT

Austrians at Prospect Hill in Encounter on Street; One Is Held by Police.

Thomas Starkovic, 30 years old, was stabbed to death; Joseph Olke, 25, and Joseph Pichenski, 34, were sent to the city hospital with bullet and knife wounds, and Joseph Schulte, 25, was taken to the Baden Police Station with minor cuts about his face and body following a fight between Austrians at Prospect Hill last night.

The men were employed as laborers at the St. Louis Portland Cement Co.'s plant and boarded with Emil Diedrich, in front of whose place the fight occurred.

Starkovic, who also was known as Smith, had a fight last Sunday and a warrant was issued against him by the county authorities. He blamed Pichenski and Olke for his trouble and threatened to get even.

WITNESS BRINGS BRYAN'S NAME INTO DOMINICAN AFFAIR

Says Attorney Told Him Secretary of State Would Share Contract Profits.

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—William C. Beer, an attorney for the Banco Nacional of Santo Domingo, which has been accused of seeking to exploit public contracts in the Dominican Republic, was quoted by a witness at the inquiry into the fitness of James M. Sullivan, American Minister to that republic, yesterday, as having said he expected to share the profits he made in the alleged exploitation with Secretary of State Bryan, Martin E. Glynn, former Governor of New York, and Congressman of James A. Hamill of New Jersey.

M. E. Davis of New York, a contractor for supplies, who was the witness, testified the statement had been made to him by Beer while the two were on their way to Santo Domingo. Davis went to Santo Domingo with the expectation of getting Government contracts which, he said, Beer had represented to him were to be had.

The witness said that at the time he had taken Beer's statement seriously, but when Senator-elect James D. Phelan, who is conducting the inquiry, and his attorney, Charles H. Strong, expressed surprise that he had so regarded it, Davis asserted he now believed the statement to be "silly rot."

Wanted to Make Impression.

He declared Beer evidently was trying to make an impression and "using all means in his power to get money." That Minister Sullivan had encouraged the Dominican Government to bombard the city of Puerto Plata during a revolution in October, 1913, in spite of the fact that it would endanger American property there, was charged in testimony by G. Q. Baker, a construction engineer. Baker had a contract for building a power house in that city for a Boston concern, and said he protested to Minister Sullivan, asking intervention against a threatened attack upon the city by a Dominican gunboat patrolling the river.

The city was at that time in possession of the revolutionists, and although it was defended by a so-called fort, Baker said it was in no sense fortified, as the entire artillery of the fort consisted of one one-pound gun. Sullivan he declared had insisted that it was a fort, and that the gunboat had a right to bombard. Baker said he then entered a protest in writing to the Minister. To this Sullivan replied in a letter that was put in evidence, in which occurred the sentence:

"This does not mean that the attack on the town will be stopped by the United States; on the contrary, we will encourage it."

Copy Sent to Bryan.
A copy of the letter, the witness said, was sent to Secretary Bryan.

The gunboat subsequently did bombard, he testified, throwing five shells into the city and damaging his property, though not seriously.

Commissioner Phelan is trying to procure the attendance of Jack Rose, one of the witnesses at the trial of Police Lieutenant Becker for the murder of Herman Rosenthal.

Sullivan acted as Rose's counsel in the case and was associated with him, according to testimony in the present investigation, in the promotion of prize fights in Waterbury, Conn.

Bryan Will Not Comment Till He Sees Testimony.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—Secretary Bryan last night stood under a chandelier in the drawing room of his Calumet place residence and carefully read M. E. Davis' statement that W. C. Beer had stated that he (Bryan) was to get a part of the profits on Santo Domingo contracts. Mr. Bryan slowly rolled up the telegram. Then he said:

"I want to see the testimony before I make any comment."

The Secretary seemed to be on the point of saying something further, but apparently changed his mind and led the way to his front door, which he opened.

"You may say," he added as the correspondent was about to step out the front door, "that when the testimony is all in, and when I have an opportunity of going over it, I will make any comment that I deem necessary. Good-night."

Glynn Says He Never Was Interested in Santo Domingo.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 21.—"The statement of M. E. Davis in the investigation of James M. Sullivan, American Minister to the Dominican republic, that I am interested in Santo Domingo matters is an absolute falsehood," said former Gov. Martin E. Glynn in a statement he issued last night. "I do not know Mr. Davis and never heard of him before."

"I do not know Mr. Sullivan and have no interest whatever in his doings. I am not interested in Santo Domingo, never was and never hope to be. I know nothing about the matter and cannot understand why my name has been dragged into it."

"I have been acquainted with William C. Beer for years, but I am not interested with him in any enterprise."

COUPLE DESERT FOUR CHILDREN; BABY BOY DIES

Man and Wife Who Confess

DOESN'T WANT THEM BACK

Woman Declares She Does Not Want to Give Up Life to Minding Children.

By leased Wire From the New York
Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—George Frederick Haefner, 36 years old, and his wife, Jeanette, 34, who are held in jail in default of $5000 bail for deserting their four children on the streets, may have to answer a more serious charge, for one of the deserted babies is dead of pneumonia.

Haefner says he is a sign painter out of work and penniless. He could not buy food for the children, he says, and deserted them, confident either some rich person would adopt them or they would be sent to a home.

Two boys, aged 5 and 3, were found deserted last Friday. They were taken to the Children's Society.

Haefner and his wife went to see them. At sight of the youngsters the father and mother confessed they had deserted them.

Their story was cut short by a telephone message which said six months ago the man and woman had four children. Then the couple admitted they had deserted the other two children—aged 18 months and two months—last November. Both children had been found in doorways and taken to Bellevue Hospital.

Haefner, dressed in a gray suit and a navy blue chinchilla overcoat, stood protectively by his wife, whose face was completely hidden by a brown silk veil. She wore a gray skirt, a light blue coat of good material and a blue velvet toque to match, besides some rather showy jewelry. Neither showed any outward sign of the destitution of which they had complained.

"I do not want these two younger children back," Mrs. Haefner said. "We have no means to care for them, and I don't want to give up my life to mind-ling four children."

The Haefners first appeared in the city some time last July. They lived at various places and the man worked steadily at $3 to $3.50 a day until after the middle of December.

Naturalist and Kansas Fish Warden
Was Bitten by Gila Monster

Two Weeks Ago

TOPEKA, Kan., Jan. 21.—Lewis Lindsay Dyche, Kansas' naturalist, Arctic explorer and professor of systematic zoology and taxidermy at the University of Kansas, died at Stormont Hospital here yesterday of heart disease.

Prof. Dyche, who was State Fish and Game Warden, about two weeks ago was bitten by a Gila monster, but physicians say this was not responsible for his death.

Prof. Dyche made many expeditions in all parts of North America, including Mexico, Alaska, Labrador and Greenland. He led the expedition that left Gloucester, Mass., on May 16, 1898, that resulted in the rescue of Lieut.
Robert E. Peary and his party on the western coast of Greenland. He found the party near death from cold and starvation. He also accompanied Dr.

Mount McKinley.

AMERICAN SAILORS DETAINED FOR A TIME IN GERMANY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—American sailors of the crew of the steamer Green Brier, whose seizure by the British fleet is now the subject of diplomatic negotiation, have been released from detention by German authorities at Bremen.

The American Consul at Bremen today reported the release of the Greenbrier's men as well as those of the steamer Carolyn, another ship which had carried cotton to Germany. His notification of their release was the first intimation officials here had that the men had been held. It was not stated whether they had been arrested or detained as the result of misconduct ashore, or whether it was the purpose of the German officials to prevent them from acquiring any knowledge of defenses which might be useful to the enemy.

PULMOTOR SAVES MAN'S LIFE

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Jan. 21.—J. H.
Richardson, salesman for the Becker-Moore Paint Co. of St. Louis, narrowly escaped asphyxiation here last night.
On retiring to his room in the Palace
Hotel, Richardson lighted a gas stove, but the flames did not take hold along the entire gas feed bar and gas escaped into the room.

A bell boy discovered that gas was escaping about 1 o'clock this morning.
He climbed through the transom and opened a window. The salesman was taken to St. John's Hospital, where he was revived by the use of a pulmotor.
He will recover.

Remedy to Relieve Constipation Quickly

The progress of modern medical science is, perhaps, no more forcefully evident than in the simplifying of many of the old-time remedies of past generations. For instance, the harsh cathartics and violent purgatives used by our forefathers to relieve constipation are now known to be not only unnecessary, but really harmful. Constipation can be more effectively relieved without the discomfort and pain these old-time remedies occasioned.

A combination of simple laxative herbs with pepper, sold in drug stores under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is most effective, yet mild and pleasant. It is absolutely free from opiates and narcotics and equally as desirable a remedy for the tiniest babe as for rugged manhood. A free trial bottle can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 452 Washington street, Monticello, Ill.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

The Aldermanic Candidates.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I noticed in your valuable paper of Sunday morning, Jan. 17, a new article referring to the plans of the Republican City Committee in which they are contemplating making a slate for the Board of Aldermen, which, as your paper states, will virtually be a political trust. This article is indeed timely and it behooves every good voter of our beloved city to take notice thereof, or they will be in the clutches of a trust so strong that they will be compelled to accept what the leaders of this political trust shall dictate. Bills will be passed to their liking, and all civic improvement will be retarded, unless some good jobs could be created for their favorites at the expense of the taxpaying public. I fully believe the time has come when we can no longer trust so important a body as the Board of Aldermen to a slate-making political party, be it Democratic or Republican. This can only be avoided by scratching the names of party candidates, except in cases where the party candidate has been thoroughly investigated and found that he will put civic pride and citizenship above politics. He then should be entitled to the votes of all good citizens, but by no means can we afford to let either the Republican or Democratic committee put through their entire slate. The good citizens should have control of the Board of Aldermen, and, above all, let us select a good, clean-cut business man for president of this board.

Your paper has in the past made investigations of all candidates and given their records, giving the good voters a line to work on, and we sincerely hope you will do the same at the spring election. We have also received ballots from an organization known as the Independent Voters' League, who no doubt make a thorough investigation of all candidates as to their fitness for office and loyalty to the city. This organization is also doing great good and I sincerely hope they are still in existence and will send out their ballots as in the past, giving us the information we so earnestly crave, that we may vote intelligently and put the best men in office; otherwise this cannot be done, with several hundred names on the various tickets.

By all means let us be careful of any of the old combine members who may be seeking reelection, or candidates connected in any way with the public service corporations.

CIVIC PRIDE FIRST.

Billy Sunday's Language.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Many harsh criticisms on Billy Sunday's language in trying to save the souls of men are used by men in conversation on the subject and are published in the papers, and I am among those who do not approve of all his statements, but he has an excellent example in Jesus Christ, who, in addressing the Pharisees, who found fault with him, said "Ye serpents, ye generators of vipers, how can ye escape the damnation of hell?"—Matthew 23:33. That is about as severe as anything that "Billy" says.

The seriousness of the business calls for plain and powerful language.

Get right with God.

ELDER.

Help for the Down-and-Out.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

It seems to us about the philanthropists of St. Louis should puzzle their brains about how to take care of the idle and starving that are amongst them now more numerous than ever. "Out of work" and "starving" are the reasons given for crimes that cost St. Louis millions of dollars to say nothing of loss of life, ruined character, etc.

Down here in the peaceful Ozarks that war and the high cost of living do not affect us, except to make the producer all the more prosperous. Why don't the would-be benefactors of the great cities buy small farms in a country like this, where such farms are exceptionally cheap, and where all kinds of farm products, fruits, poultry, etc., are raised, and put the down-and-out population on the farm every winter and make them earn their keep?

Perhaps a desire could be created in them to remain in the country, get a small place of their own and become producers. The high cost of living will be a growing factor in this country until the tide is turned from city to country stronger than it is now. There are too many eggshells and not enough producers; too many people who spend their last dime for a taste of the bright lights and never have a penny in the bank when their jobs fade away in such times as now.

Back to the farm should be a cry of every newspaper, having the interest of the people at heart, such as the Post-Dispatch to be. Make it a daily message to them, telling of the beauties and advantages of life in the country, where there is independence, freedom, health and prosperity.

W. F. DRAPER.

THE DEAL CHARGES.

The issue of veracity raised by Insurance Commissioner Revelle with State Treasurer Deal on the latter's report concerning the increased expenses of the Insurance Commissioner's office makes an investigation imperative. The personal motives which Mr. Revelle hints are back of the report may be very interesting from a political standpoint, but we agree with him that the facts are more important.

The facts cannot be ignored by the Legislature. State Treasurer Deal charges excessive expenses in four important departments. He says the expenses in the Insurance Commissioner's office during the last two years increased $13,795.61, while his receipts increased only $1157.26. In short, it took $13 of expense increase to get $1 in increased receipts.

In the office of the State Department Mr. Deal charges a decrease in receipts of $61,015.88, with increased cost of $6270.55.

In the office of State Auditor Gordon, he states that an increase of receipts amounting to $9417.75 is offset by an increase of operating expenses amounting to $21,720.50.

In the State Penitentiary the report shows that during the first two years of McClung's management the expenses were $69,000 more than they were during the last biennial period under his predecessor. Among the heaviest expenses were a $15,000 increase in official salaries and nearly $6000 in expenses for repainting and furnishing the Warden's residence.

An increase in expenses amounting to $9310.76 is found in the Attorney-General's office, but it is offset by a quarter of a million paid in fines from suits instituted by former Attorney-General Hadley.

The expenses of Mr. Deal's own office increased over $6000, but he shows a large increase in the general revenue through the system of competitive bidding for State funds.

This showing of great increases in expense comes on the heels of exposures of nepotism and extravagance in several State offices. The State Penitentiary needs investigation independently of this exhibit of greatly increased cost, on account of the light thrown on practices there which aroused the indignation of the people of the State. The Legislature should turn the light fully on the penitentiary management.

The Democratic State Legislature cannot overlook charges of extravagance in the State administration. The charges do not come from the political opposition, but are made by a Democratic State official against Democratic State officials. Heretofore it has been the boast of the Democratic party that it has economically administered the State's business. What answer will the party make if its representatives overlook these charges of extravagance? The party must clean its own house.

A MARTYR TO SCIENCE.

One-Eyed Pete, the worm with which a Harvard professor proved that worms have a rudimentary power of thought, has died of overwork in the laboratory.

It would be interesting to know what Pete thought of Harvard College. But as Harvard folks always take it for granted that strangers admire Harvard, we suppose none of them thought to ask for Pete's opinion.

FORMING A CONVENTION TRUST.

Twenty-eight convention bureau managers from as many big American cities have just closed a session in St. Louis.

They worked out a plan to prevent convention promoters and managers from extorting big bonuses from cities for the pleasure of their company.

They plan also to cut out a lot of costly competition between their cities for the larger conventions; the idea is to pass these around in rotation to the different parts of the country, or at any rate to quit the present plan under which 20 or more cities spend money trying to capture a big convention that can go only to one.

This being an agreement in restraint of trade, and to abolish competition, we suppose the convention bureau managers are liable to prosecution under the Federal anti-trust laws—but we fancy nobody will invoke the law against them for their praiseworthy attempt to introduce common sense and economy into the convention field and to chase the grafters out of it.

WHERE ARE ST. LOUIS' JITNEYS?

Watching the amazing development of jitney car service in Southern and Western cities, one wonders why enterprising St. Louisans, owning idle cars, have not introduced it here. Surely, with street cars badly overcrowded, and with large populations at the city's edge walking half a mile to a mile to reach a car line, St. Louis has work for the jitneys.

Houston, with 140 jitneys in use, carrying passengers from half a mile to four miles for 5 cents, reports the street railway company has dropped its plan to spend $1,000,000 for car line extensions this year.

San Antonio, Fort Worth and El Paso have big jitney fleets in action, and, as in Houston, the traction companies are shortening sail.

Los Angeles, Oakland and San Francisco papers report movements in City Councils to regulate the jitney cars, tax them for paving upkeep, etc.

Seattle's City Council has halted plans for new municipal street railway lines. Mayor Gill says: "Automobiles are about to supersede car lines. Street railways in all parts of the country are experiencing difficulty in raising money, for fear of motor bus competition. If the city, in the face of this fact, begins to spend money on further extensions, we are fools rushing in where angels fear to tread."

Seattle's 500 jitney car owners have organized an association, for joint action in courts and in politics.

The jitney car owners appear to have proved, in cities of 80,000 to 600,000, that a man with $500 invested in a cheap car, running it himself, can carry three to seven passengers at 5 cents more profitably than a great corporation with millions invested in plant can carry them at the same price. They have found a way in which the little capitalist can compete with the big fellow, and they like it. It all recalls the way the Lilliputians bound the giant Gulliver—while he slept.

Perhaps the jitney is only a stopgap for hard times, and not really economic. Time will tell. Two things the jitneys have done: they have made it possible for anybody with a nickel to ride in an automobile, and they have "restored competition" with a vengeance, in a field long closed against its quickening influence.

PERMANENCE IN EMPLOYMENT.

A vulnerable point in the employing system that remains after years of effort for the improvement of the wage-workers' condition is described in the following by James Cousins of the Ford Automobile Co.:

"Business men naturally make provision for rent, taxes, telephone service, power, etc., for 12 months in each year.

"The human element in industry is as important as any of these. A human, being means as much to a company as its telephone or the rent.

"And yet some business men who would not dream of neglecting the rent and making preparation for meeting it think they are within their rights in laying off or discharging their workers any time."

"Would you compel business men, Mr. Cousins to employ their help 12 months in the year?"

"Either that—or support them."

But this neglect is not confined to private employers. Cities engage their high-salaried workers by the month, by the year, by the term of years. But the laborers, the street sweeper, others at a small wage who can least afford any loss of time, are engaged by the day.

Employees themselves seem to have been as un-mindful as employers of the importance of the steady job to the worker. Organized labor has struggled for sanitary employment conditions, for higher wages, for shorter hours, for safeguards against discharge for frivolous reasons. It has won many brilliant victories. But when has it struggled for permanency of employment?

In making up his business budget, the employer reckons all other fixed charges by the year. The item of labor is only tentative, subject to instant reductions enabling economies to be made at the expense of the workers instead of at the expense of others better situated for bearing the expense.

Greater permanency of occupation is highly important even in times of abundant work and urgent demand for help. We see everywhere that accidents, sickness, unfavorable conditions due to weather or other reasons inflict losses amounting to a considerable percentage of the yearly pay. The special industrial committees of the Missouri Legislature found that less than 25 per cent of women employees work full time. But the subject becomes of vital importance in periods of depression when workers with small advance notice may be put on short time or deprived of employment entirely. A minimum in the time during which employment is guaranteed may be as valuable as a minimum wage.

BELLEVILLE'S INDIFFERENCE.

Perhaps Belleville's voters, rejecting a proposition to adopt the commission form of city government, are waiting for a chance to put on the latest style, of commission-city manager government. It is evident the proposal to go half way from the old ward plan to the newest and best business efficiency plan did not interest the people, since less than a third of the city's 10,000 electors troubled themselves to vote either way.

TWO YEARS IN PHILADELPHIA!

The infamous cruelty of Judge Jeffreys has been surpassed by New York's famous Judge Rosalsky. A poor devil of a thief pleaded guilty before him, and what heinous thing do you suppose Judge Rosalsky imposed on the creature? He sentenced him to two years in Philadelphia!

In death-warrant notes the brutal jurist spoke these fatal words: "You are to go hence to Philadelphia there to remain for the space of two years, else I will send you to jail in New York." A silence fell upon the court. When he could summon strength sufficient the doomed man rose and staggered out on the arm of a deputy, who escorted him to the place named in the sentence. Two years in Philadelphia!

OUR BELGIUMS OF POLITICS.

Among the 13-bills whose passage is asked of the Legislature by many civic organizations of Missouri is one for a nonpartisan management of the State's charitable and reformatory institutions. This simply means that in political fighting some Missouri territory will be recognized as neutral territory. Embattled parties should not fire on flags of truce. The resources of the Red Cross should not be drawn on to give an advantage to contestants on either political firing line.

In many states where party feeling runs as high as in Missouri, the State institutions for the unfortunate and for minor delinquents have always had immunity from the demoralization of the spoils system. But in Missouri, Governors who would think it preposterous to inquire the politics of a physician before summoning him to treat the ills of their own family, insist on substituting a physician of their party for one of an opposing party in the State asylums where the mentally diseased are cared for. Even a Democratic physician often has to give place to another Democratic physician when the latter is a man who supported the winning Democratic candidate for Governor and the former supported somebody else.

The charitable institutions have been the Belgiums of politics too long. Their direction should be rendered independent of the vicissitudes of politics and administrations. Efficiency in promoting the objects for which the institutions were established should be the sole standard by which the work of their staffs should be appraised.

The advantage demanded for the charitable institutions should not be denied the penal institutions. Nonpartisan management for prisons is making rapid strides in all parts of the country.

AS TO UNCLE GEORGE.

SEEKING relief from war and the horrors of war, our harried eyes worked quietly down through the East Lynne letter in the Cass County (Mo.) Register on yesterday, to encounter this:

Uncle George preached for Brother Pratt Sunday night. His subject was "The Devil." By this still pond we lay us down. Here was what we were looking for. Here was rest from the quarrels and the combats of kings. The tumult and the shouting died. Uncle George was never finer, we thought; never more militant; never more invincible. Nor did the devil seem worried. It was apparently all one with him whether Uncle George did for him or not. He had no wife, no children. It was delicious. It was restful. "Lay on, Uncle George!" said we, and lunged there—the world forgetting—the world forgot.

We don't know how it came out. We don't care. All we want to do is to thank God for Uncle George, who could stick to his knitting.

HE HAD A GOOD MEMORY

WHILE visiting the Berlin zoological gardens, little Gretchen saw a great white bird standing on one leg in a cage. She threw in a piece of candy. The bird gobbled it up eagerly and thrust its head through the wire for more. Presently Gretchen's mother came along.

"Oh, mother, see here! What kind of a bird is this?"

The mother pointed to the sign on the cage, which read, "The Stork."

"The stork!" cried the little girl, enthusiastically. "Oh, mamma, do you know, he actually recognized me!"—Lustige Blätter.

MEAN TRICK ON THE CHAMPION MEAN MAN.

A farmer near Lamar has the mail order habit, but he makes life miserable for the clothing men of that town by trying on garments until he gets a fit. Then he inquires what the size is, excuses himself and orders his size from Sawa, Sway-back & Co. The other day he was fitted with an overcoat by a wise clerk who knew his fallings, and when he asked the size the clerk said, "That is a 40." Then the farmer excused himself and said he would look around a bit. Now it was really a 36 that he was trying on, and when the clerk asked the farmer wearing a mail order coat four sizes too big for him, he grins all to himself. Who can blame him?—Cass County (Mo.) Leader.

THE SHIP PURCHASE BILL.

J. S. Richardson in Philadelphia Record. The ocean freight and passenger traffic is one of the most important adjuncts for the commercial prestige and welfare of any nation. For a great country like the United States, with thousands of miles of frontage on the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, to permit her merchant marine to dwindle into junk may, at first thought, seem mysterious.

Such a plan would not, of course, be subsidizing a private shipping trust. Those who advocate subsidizing private business should invest their money in foreign vessels sailing and trading under foreign flags.

We have had enough piratical legislative favoritism (which is nothing but subsidy in mask), and what we want now is legislation for the benefit of the whole nation. Governmental paternalism (granting subsidies for special private

THE TROUBADOUR.

LIGHT, they say, is no man's friend: And at night he met his end In the woods of Trebizend.

Hate crouched near him as he strode Down the darkness of the road, Where my lord seemed some huge god.

Eyes of murder glared and burned At each bend of road he turned, Or where wild the torrent churned.

And with death we stood and stared From the bush as he he faded; But he never looked nor cared.

He went singing; and a rose Lay upon his heart's repose With what thoughts of her—who knows?

He had done no other wrong But to sing a simple song, "I have loved you, loved you long."

And my lord smiled and sighed; Gave a rose and looked mead-eyed, And forgot she was a bride.

And my lord saw, gave commands, I was of his robber bands; Love should perish at our hands.

Young the knight was. He should sing Nevermore of love and spring, Or of any gentle thing.

When he stole at midnight's hour To my lady's forest bower, We were hidden near the tower.

In the woods of Trebizend There he met an evil end, Night, you know, is no man's friend.

He had fought in fort and field; Borne for years a stainless shield, And in strength to none would yield.

But we seized him unaware; Bound and hung and stripped him bare; Left him to the wild boars there.

Never has my lady known, But she often sits alone, Weeping when my lord is gone.

Night, they say, is no man's friend: In the woods of Trebizend There he met an evil end.

Now my lord sleeps in peace, While my lady—each one sees— Waits, and keeps her memories.

—Madison Cawein.

The Jarr Family

By ROY L. MCCARDELL.

Mr. Jarr Is Honored by a Handshake From a Man Festeoned in Diamonds.

MR. JARR had been in some queer assemblages in his time, but the grand benefit ball of The Human Uniques was by all odds the oddest.

Here a midget danced with a giant-ess and there a skeleton dude with Zip the original What Is It?

Mrs. Jarr, the bearded lady, stepped an exhibition Argentine tango with Mina, the Eskimo bone carver. Bona the Wild Man was the devoted cavalier of the Pin-Headed Girl. The Wall-Eyed Astor and the Circassian Princess, the Blue Man and the Lion-Faced Lady, George the Turtle Boy and the Armless Needlewoman were just a few of the weird assembly of human unities.

But they took the whole affair and their pleasures very seriously. The pallid man consuming ice cream (Fritz), the shipping clerk, informed Mr. Jarr was Vulcan, the Fire Eater. He pointed out the other notables present, and mopped his glowing face with pride.

"Some class to this, eh?" he asked. And then a deep hush of reverent admiration came into his voice. "You can tell it down at the works tomorrow, if you like, because I ain't the one to brag," he said. "But Diamond Jack has opened wine tonight! He hadn't been in a minute before he opened wine. I wouldn't be surprised if he opened eight quarts. That's the kind of sport he is! He always has a b. r. that is as big and yellow as a quarantine flag."

"Come over. I'll introduce you. Why, don't be afraid, he'll treat you all right. He don't put on no side. When he's out on a racket, he'll speak to anybody!"

Mr. Jarr's reluctance to meet the affable notable was taken for timidity, and Fritz pushed him over as though he were a packing case to where sat a coarse and pompous man wearing, though in the ballroom, a most impressive fur coat and an extra wide Western dove-colored hat with a leather belt around it. This belt was studded with diamonds, as were the man's fat, dirty fingers. His watch chain, which was of most impressive size, was blazing with diamonds. A diamond the size of a baseball was in his flowing crimson cravat; his waistcoat buttons were set in diamonds. He had sweeping moustaches of purple black which, through some oversight, he had not fastened with diamonds.

"Talk of graft, not being what it was," this important personage was saying. "Why, I remember the time when a pitchman could cut up a cake of soap, wrap the bits in tinfoil, palm a dollar bill as he wrapped the soap, before the slaps, and he wouldn't be raising his pipe a mill more before the slaps would be going to it and nobody boasting on the outside of the play, and nobody shilling or tooting at all, mind you! And your b. r. would have all sorts of money, red, white and blue, and your reader only costing you a two-spot; and if the slaps found they were nicked and put up a yelp, five bucks slipped to the village main squeeze would square it."

"But now if you try to play anything stronger than a plate board or a poodle wheel, the chance is you get the Dick's tap before you're through your opening, and the rubs fiddle has you in the house now. And no matter if you are a lodge brother, it don't square it unless you come back with the kale—and once you are sloughed in them hick towns, every slimp will swear you trimmed him for 50 bones, and them guys never saw that much cash except when they looked into a bank."

"That's why I took up the medico jam, gents," continued the purveyor of Essence of Dogwood. "I can cook it myself, anywhere, and that's why I give up scopes, or slum—how can you pass out slum when you wear real foot? If you ain't wise to the patter, for pitchmen has their own patter, I'll tell you that 'scopes is microscopes, and slum is Arizona diamonds—fake jewelry."

"Doctor, let me introduce you to a friend—Mr. Jarr," said Fritz.

Mr. Jarr extended his hand in a perfunctory manner, and the Indian Medicine Man proceeded to give it a succession of grips, twists and squeezes. Mr. Jarr, in a spirit of fun, returned all the grips and pressures that he could originate in so short a space.

"Hi! I see, a brother!" cried the street corner quack. "Walter, bring us another quart!"

A thrill of ineffable respect went through the assemblage. Real wine was being opened!

"And, as I say," continued the street corner quack, "don't holler about hard times. Times ain't hard; they are only changing. Change your graft to suit the times. The movies can't crimp my game. For grafts may come and grafts may go, but slimps come on forever!"

And to this optimistic toast they all drank.

Almost Satisfied.

A KANSAS farmer, a Dane, applied for naturalization papers. The Judge asked him: "Are you satisfied with the general conditions of the country?"

"Yes," drawled the Dane.

"Does the Government suit you?" queried the Judge.

"Yes, yes; only I would like to see more rain," replied the farmer.

Pants on Pedestals.

WHY do you spend so much care on the crease of your pants, hey?"

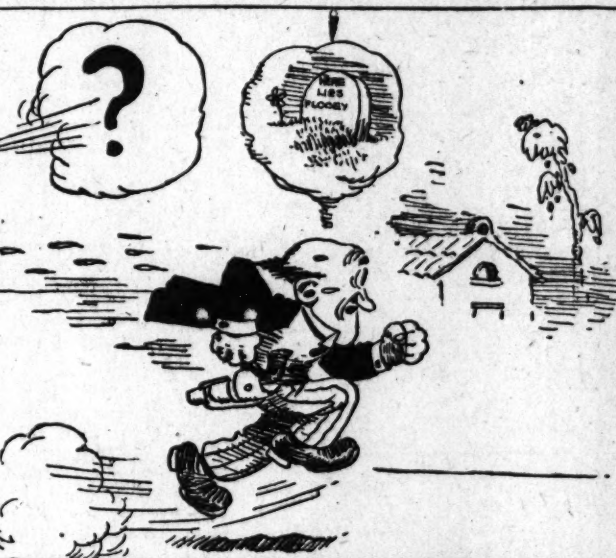

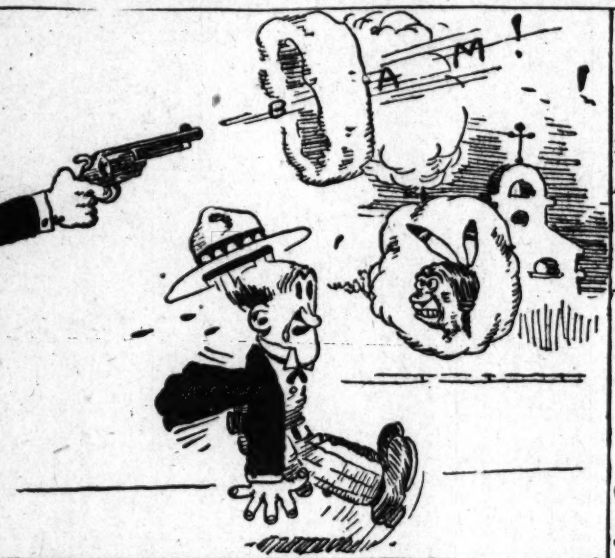

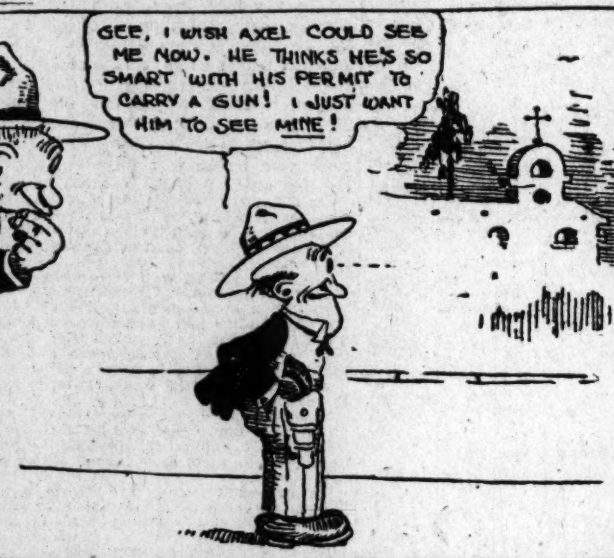

"It is important, dad, not to wear baggy trousers."

"Important, is it? Why, you young cub, look here. Did you ever see a statue to a man who didn't wear baggy trousers?"

Not a Bad Excuse

SOME time ago a hobo called at a suburban home for food and was promised a good dinner if he would assist in cleaning up the lawn. Being hungry, the hobo acquiesced, and was put to work eating soil in a wheelbarrow.

"Walter, bring us another quart!"

A thrill of ineffable respect went through the assemblage. Real wine was being opened!

"And, as I say," continued the street corner quack, "don't holler about hard times. Times ain't hard; they are only changing. Change your graft to suit the times. The movies can't crimp my game. For grafts may come and grafts may go, but slimps come on forever!"

Tips and Tips.

AN American spending his vacation in Scotland had an opportunity to play golf every day on a world-famous links. Moreover, he had assigned to him an exceptionally fine caddy, who had frequently carried the bags of the best golfers in Scotland.
